ABOUT ME

As an advanced student in Computer Science and Systems at Universidad Nacional de General Sarmiento (UNGS), I am passionate about technology and its transformative potential. My academic journey and projects have equipped me with strong skills in software development, database management, and system design. I thrive in dynamic environments and enjoy tackling challenging projects that drive innovation and create impact.

I am seeking opportunities to join a forward-thinking company where I can apply my technical skills, contribute to meaningful projects, and continue growing professionally and personally in an environment that fosters collaboration and creativity.
